Read the information below about mistakes in films.

Do you think that all films are perfect?
Well, think again. People have spotted quite a few mistakes in some very famous films.
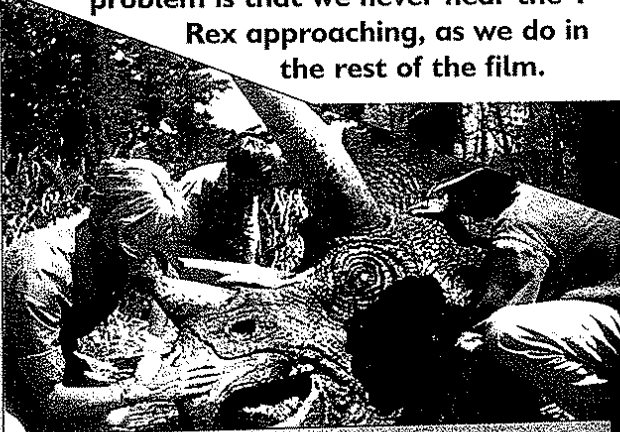

JURASSIC PARK

The beginning of the film takes place in San José, Costa Rica. San José is about 150 miles away from the ocean. However, in the film we can see the ocean through the trees!

In the scene where the helicopter is landing, we can see two jeeps waiting for the guests, however, in the next scene, the jeeps have to drive up to meet the helicopter.

At one point in the film Dr Alan Grant spends a night with the children in the forest. It is very muddy, but the next morning Dr Grant's shoes are as clean as if he had just taken them out of a box!

While Ellie Satler is being chased by a dinosaur, she injures her foot and starts limping. Throughout the film the limping changes from one leg to the other!

Finally, at the end of the film a T-Rex bursts into the Visitors' Center. The problem is that we never hear the T-Rex approaching, as we do in the rest of the film.

STAR WARS
Episode 1
THE PHANTOM MENACE

Obi-Wan's braided hair keeps changing sides and getting longer and shorter throughout the film.

When the two robots, R2D2 and C-3PO meet for the first time, we can see Anakin and Padme in the background. They are not watching the action in the scene. Instead, they are watching the robot technician move C-3PO about.

At one point everybody leaves planet Tatooine in a shiny spaceship. After a while the spaceship lands on Coruscant. There's a lot of air traffic, but this is not reflected on the spaceship, neither are the people who are walking around. The reflection on the spaceship shows a bare landscape!

In the crowd watching the race you can clearly see somebody dressed exactly like Indiana Jones!
